

Introduction

While Random Event Generators (REGs) have often been used as research apparatus for proving a connection between the mind and the physical world, Psyleron has found the device to be a valuable tool for people looking for a direct way to measure and experience the effects of consciousness on their physical reality.

Users who work with the REG report that it responds to their emotions and beliefs, and that their state of being and means of relating to the world affect their ability to make the device respond.

Feelings of resonance, calmness, and harmony enhance their ability to influence its outcomes; whereas fear and over analysis seem to hinder success. By seeing and feeling this in real-time, a user can develop a better awareness of their own being and how it affects the world around them.

Psyleron sells the REG and software as a product that is designed to be robust enough for research applications, but simple enough for anyone with basic computer experience to setup and use.

Software

Reflector

Reflection and self-awareness are keys to performing well with our products and in your life. The Reflector application is a personal development tool that forces you to align your thoughts and subconscious state with a desired outcome.

Many people find it useful to think of the Reflector as a type of Bio Feedback system that responds to intention. Unlike traditional biofeedback, which measures biological indicators such as heart-rate and blood flow, the REG responds directly to more subtle elements of consciousness and needs no physical connection.

Example from the Reflector. If the operator was trying to create a "high" outcome he was succeeding.

FieldREG

FieldREG can be thought of as a tool for measuring the effects of consciousness in a situation where no explicit intention to affect the REG is present.

While meditating or visiting a sacred site, or perhaps in the middle of a moving piece of music, some operators will find that their REG produces outcomes that would not normally occur by chance.

By evaluating these outcomes on the computer and being able to correlate the REG response to events of a subjective and emotional character, users are able to gain new insights into how consciousness relates to events in their life.

Benefits

- Deeper understanding of how the mind affects the physical.
- Enhanced self-awareness.
- The opportunity to expose and overcome limiting factors in ones subconscious.
- Optimize activities with FieldREG
